

ERM Consulting – Phases and Options

We believe that implementing ERM is a multi-year process, the speed of which should be controlled by you – the client. We can provide consulting advice throughout the entire implementation process, or you can select services that meet your specific needs in each phase. For all contracted services, we collaborate with you to create appropriate deliverables and outcomes – to assist your organization to build a robust and sustainable ERM program.

The ERM process we utilize is consistent with the principles, framework and process of ISO 31000, the international risk management standard.
