Your Duty of Fair Presentation

We have set out below the applicable duty of disclosure that you have as regards insurers, where your policy is governed by the laws of England, Wales, Scotland, and Northern Ireland. When you answer questions or agree with assumptions during the quotation process, you must disclose material facts or circumstances about the risk(s) you want to insure. A material fact or circumstance is something that would influence the judgement of an insurer in deciding whether or not to insure the risk.

This is known as a 'duty of fair presentation' and includes disclosing the following:

- Information that you, your firm's senior management, or anyone responsible for arranging your insurance knows, or should know in relation to your business; and
- Information that would be revealed by a reasonable search of information available to you or by making enquiries, and could include information held within your business or by someone else (such as your insurance broker).

Remember that if you fail to meet this duty, it could mean that the policy is void, or that the insurer is not liable to pay all or part of your claim(s). Please be aware that if any of your details, material facts or circumstances change during the policy period, you must always notify us immediately. Examples of material facts or circumstances include the following (please note these have been provided as examples only and the list is not exhaustive):

- Other policies in place covering the same risk
- Previous claims or incidents which may have led to a claim but for which you did not actually submit a claim
- Any caution, charge or conviction of a criminal offence for you or any director/business partner/trustee
- Being declined cover by other insurers or having special terms imposed
- Changes to your business activities

If your policy is not subject to English law you are expected to disclose risk information in accordance with the requirements of the applicable law. In such circumstances, we expect you will disclose risk information at least equal to the standard required under English law and where the applicable law requires you to disclose information over and above the level required under English law you will provide such information in accordance with that law.
